Supported languages

Scope and sequence documents are provided for six supported languages and describe two main groupings: French, German, Indonesian, and Italian (alphabetic) and Chinese and Japanese (non-alphabetic).

Auslan is a supported language but uses national documents for planning and assessing.

Why teach languages (LOTE)?

Students with proficiency in another language can communicate more effectively in an increasingly globalised world.

Learning a language is recommended for its contribution to the overall education of students, particularly in the areas of communication, intercultural understanding and literacy. It provides a foundation for later language learning and supports educational, career and life pathways.

Languages (LOTE) is in the English–literacy area of the curriculum as it strongly supports the development of literacy, language and communication skills. What we learn to do in one language helps us with any other language and strengthens all literacy practices.

Language learning practices

For successful and effective language learning, learners need opportunities to:

- be involved in communicating for real-life purposes
- develop generic, transferable skills
- focus on language features, skills and strategies
- build on prior language learning allowing for the development of proficiency
- learn about their own and other cultures through language
- make connections across the curriculum and revisit concepts and processes in new contexts.

(Adapted from Australian Language Level Guidelines)

Supporting literacy

Learning another language promotes the development of understanding and literacy skills in students' first language. Students better understand how language works and develop a range of powerful learning strategies. Students make comparisons, recognise patterns and view their first language from a different perspective.

Using information and communication technologies (ICT)

Technology can bring languages and cultures into the classroom in immediate and authentic ways. Effective use of ICT can:

- facilitate effective communication between students and native speakers
- bring the target language and culture into the classroom
- support learning at all levels
- allow students to work at their own pace.

Thinking

Communicating in another language requires a broad range of thinking strategies, including classifying, predicting, analysing and applying language rules. Students develop ways of thinking about and describing language use. As students use and experience different languages and cultural practices, they reflect on their learning and are challenged to consider their own identities and perspectives. They gain new ways of thinking about their place in the world.

Intercultural language learning

Intercultural language learning is a way of understanding the relationship between language and culture and how to use that knowledge in communicating across cultures. Intercultural language learning helps learners to know and understand the world around them from multiple perspectives and to learn about themselves through language learning. It requires learners to adopt an inquisitive mind, to notice and question assumptions and to rethink how they relate to others.

Core content strands

Languages (LOTE) is organised into three interrelated strands:

- communication
- language as a system
- language and culture.

Communicating is the central focus of language learning. The learning that takes place in the language as a system and language and culture strands enables students to develop the knowledge and skills that they need to communicate more effectively. The relative emphasis given to each strand in teaching programs will vary according to the specific language and the needs of students.

1. Communication
Students use their increasing knowledge of language and culture to communicate effectively, confidently and responsibly. They use the macro skills of listening, speaking, reading and writing.
2. Language as a system
Students learn to identify, explain, apply, and compare language features, conventions and patterns and to understand languages as systems. They articulate what they discover about the similarities between their first and second languages. These skills and understandings support their English literacy skills and provide a foundation for future learning.
3. Language and culture
Students learn to recognise, compare, apply, reflect on, and analyse cultural features, conventions, and patterns through language interactions. They identify and examine their own cultural values and develop an awareness of diverse cultural systems.

Performance criteria

Significant aspects of learning are described in detail in the learning opportunities within each of the following strands:

- communication (listening, speaking, reading and writing)
- language as a system
- language and culture.

A suggested scope and sequence for these performance criteria is described in this syllabus across five standards. Thinking and Using ICT are embedded.

Standards (non-alphabetic)

Strands		Standard one	Standard two	Standard three	Standard four	Standard five
Communication	Listening	Makes connections between words and phrases and their meanings in spoken texts	Recognises meaning of phrases and sentences and responds appropriately in routine classroom activities and social exchanges	Demonstrates comprehension of simple, factual items of information contained in short spoken texts	Demonstrates comprehension of main ideas and some supporting details in social interactions and in a variety of spoken texts	Demonstrates comprehension of overall meaning and key supporting details in authentic and modified spoken texts
	Speaking	Uses single words and short phrases in action-related activities and in simple social interactions	Takes part in spoken social routines and responds to familiar questions in everyday classroom contexts	Makes statements and asks simple questions to exchange greetings and personal information	Using familiar language, asks for and provides information and opinions through short conversations or oral presentations	Coherently presents and requests information and opinions in sustained conversations and oral presentations
	Reading	Recognises letters, words or phrases	Reads short repetitive texts containing familiar language and identifies single items of information	Reads short texts containing familiar language and identifies key ideas	Reads a variety of texts containing some unfamiliar language and identifies key ideas and some supporting information	Demonstrates comprehension of overall meaning and key supporting details in authentic and modified written texts
	Writing	Copies and writes letters, symbols or words	Copies and writes phrases or short sentences using well-rehearsed language to convey simple information	Writes short texts to convey personal and factual information using familiar language	Applies familiar linguistic patterns and structures to link and sequence information and ideas in written texts	Conveys a range of experiences or ideas applying appropriate vocabulary and structures in a range of written texts
Language as a system		Recognises similarities and differences in the patterns of oral language	Recognises similarities and differences in the patterns of oral and written language	Recognises and uses correct patterns in the target language in familiar situations and compares with English	Without cues, recognises and uses correct patterns in the target language in familiar situations and compares with English	Uses correct patterns and analyses and interprets meaning in texts
Language and culture		Understands that people have unique characteristics. Begins to be aware that they are part of a connected world. Experiments with the target language and begins to make connections between the target culture / language and their own.	Understands that people have differences and similarities and makes comparisons between the target language culture and their own. Begins to identify how cultural values are expressed in language.	Identifies and describes the value of cultural similarity and difference. Reflects on how these are expressed in their own and the target language culture.	Understands the value of cultural diversity. Understands how cultures and languages contribute to shared and unique identity and values.	Values and celebrates cultural diversity. Shares personal insights and a deeper understanding of their own and other cultures.

Teaching for learning

High quality teaching has a significant impact on student learning and achievement. The learning, teaching and assessment principles provide guidance for teaching and assessment approaches that place the student firmly at the centre of the educational process.

Learning, teaching and assessment principles

Learning	Teaching	Assessment
...makes meaning of the world	...helps students understand by acquiring knowledge and skills	...focuses on students demonstrating understanding in a range of curriculum areas
...is innate and lifelong	...is based on high expectations and enjoyment of learning	... improves learning and achievement
...is a personal process	...recognises individual differences, is inclusive and based on a broad range of teaching strategies	...enables students to self-assess and negotiate criteria and assessment tasks
...connects prior knowledge and experiences to new information and learning	...determines what students know and connects to students' lives and futures	...information is based on valid processes and used to plan effective instruction
...is influenced by social interactions	...builds effective relationships between all those involved in the educational process	...is fair and inclusive of judgements from students, peers, teachers, parents, carers and others
...is affected by emotions	...provides a safe and challenging learning environment	...helps develop the wellbeing of all partners in the learning and teaching process
... is influenced by personal identity and motivation	...builds high expectations and confidence in students	...provides timely, accurate and positive feedback to students
...depends on meaningful information and experiences	... involves students in setting goals and connecting what is taught to life and further learning	...enables students to be clear about what is being assessed and how this connects to life and further learning
...is improved when students are aware of how thinking and learning occur	... focuses on thinking skills in all curriculum areas	...encourages students to reflect on their learning including thinking skills
...enables students to demonstrate their understanding in new ways	... enables students to apply their learning in new ways	... tests students' ability to apply their learning in new ways

Assessment principles and practice

The main purpose of assessment is to improve student learning. Assessment is an ongoing process of gathering and using evidence of student achievement.

Effective assessment enables:

- students to better understand their progress towards goals and become more knowledgeable and self-directed in their learning
- teachers to make more informed judgements about student progress and design more effective teaching programs
- parents and carers to better understand and support students' learning and achievement.

Effective assessment emphasises:

- assessment for learning—teachers using evidence of student progress to inform their teaching
- assessment as learning—students reflecting on and evaluating their progress to inform future learning goals
- assessment of learning—teachers using evidence of student learning to make individual and collective judgements on student achievement against specific curriculum goals and standards.

Methods of assessment

Languages (LOTE) teachers provide a broad range of opportunities for students to show what they know and can do. They enable students to have input into different ways of providing evidence of their learning.

Effective assessment methods include:

- informal assessment: students and teachers making incidental judgements about what they have learned on a day-to-day basis
- formal assessment tasks: students demonstrating achievement against criteria that are known prior to undertaking a learning task
- observations or anecdotal records: teachers taking informal notes while working with students
- checklists: teachers developing snapshots of the students' knowledge and skills
- portfolios: students building up carefully selected collections of their work over time.

On-balance judgement

Teachers weigh up evidence of students' performances on different aspects of the Languages (LOTE) curriculum area. They keep records of students' progress. A final decision about a student's achievement is made using an on-balance judgement. An accurate on-balance judgement considers:

- the consistency of the student's performance over a period of time
- clear indications of progress from first attempts to current performance
- demonstration of knowledge, processes and skills in different contexts
- the validity of the assessment task in relation to what it is intended to test
- whether there is sufficient evidence of achievement to assign a standard
- relative performance on similar tasks by the student's peers
- teacher reflection and collaboration with their peers to increase consistency and validity.

Opportunities to learn and year levels

The Tasmanian Curriculum describes the scope and sequence of learning opportunities for students as they progress from Kindergarten to Year 10.

In the languages (LOTE) area, students may begin their study in K-2, 3-4, 5-6, 7-8 or 9-10. Therefore students would only be expected to achieve the standards corresponding to their year level if they have had sufficient opportunities for prior study. The standards presume that the sequential study of a language for an extended period of time is necessary to achieve the highest levels of performance.

Within each language class there will be students with varying backgrounds, needs and interests. It is therefore likely that classes will be multi-level, containing students operating at more than one standard. Teachers will need to modify lesson content and related tasks according to the age and background of their students.

Schools choose a language program that suits the needs of their students and context. Models may include face-to-face teaching, intensive, online or a combination of methods. As language learning is cumulative, students should be provided with continuity of language learning opportunities and appropriate time allocations to reach the upper standards.

The learning opportunities in this document provide possible starting points for engaging students in language learning appropriate to their age, level of maturity and cognitive development. The table below provides guidance about the range of opportunities that may be offered within each year level.

Year level	K - 2			3, 4			5, 6			7, 8			9, 10

The relationship of the Languages (LOTE) curriculum to further study in Years 11 and 12 and life-long learning

The languages (LOTE) curriculum prepares students for further study in languages in the senior secondary years. Students who attain the upper stages of Standard five are prepared for pre-tertiary levels at Years 11 and 12.

Having knowledge of another language and culture builds rapport with people from around the world and provides insight to their values and ways of thinking. Most countries recognise the importance of a highly-skilled, multilingual workforce in today's rapidly changing marketplace. The ability to communicate in other languages can expand business and employment opportunities.

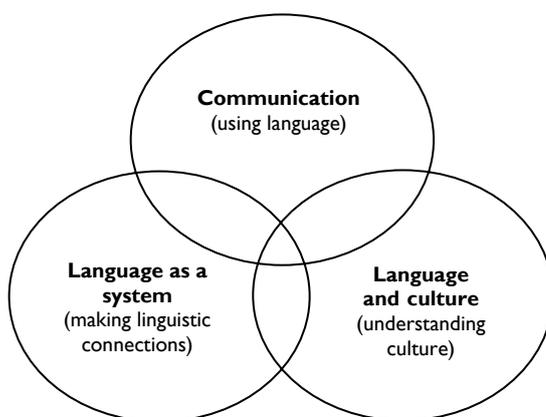

Organisation of the scope and sequence

This scope and sequence aims to support teachers in designing and delivering programs that allow students to consolidate their language learning and progressively develop the skills, knowledge and understanding necessary to be an effective communicator in the target language.

Learning does not always develop in a linear way. The cumulative nature of language learning means that teachers will often revisit content from a range of standards and draw on resources from across the standards. Higher standards incorporate the knowledge, skills and understanding from lower standards.

The three content strands are interrelated and are not intended to be taught separately. Teachers may wish to provide additional learning opportunities that meet the individual needs of their students and connect with other curriculum areas currently being studied.

The following diagram illustrates the relationship between the strands:

The content section of the syllabus is organised by five standards. Each standard section contains:

- an overview of the standard
- learning opportunities, comprising:
 - key focus areas
 - key concepts and topics
 - linguistic items
 - possible teaching emphases
- a list of resources.

Describing the scope and sequence

The scope and sequence is described in the following pages in terms of concepts, topics and linguistic items. The following pages provide a summary of the key concepts and topics, and the linguistic items, from standards one to five.

Teachers may use any of these organisers as the starting point for their planning, depending on the needs and interests of their students, their own preference and their teaching context.

Resources

Standard one overview

The standard one student may begin learning the target language in the early years. Students at standard one have a strong focus on self and their personal reactions and experiences.

Students enjoy exploring the sounds and meanings of the target language and a new form of communication. They begin to experiment mainly through listening and speaking activities particularly through the Arts (music, dance, drama, media, visual art), games and role-play.

Communication

Students experiment with language, participating in singing favourite songs and rhymes. They begin to imitate intonation, stress, rhythm and pronunciation in spoken words and phrases, and use rehearsed simple language. Students can respond non-verbally to simple directions. They engage in shared reading experiences, relying on pictorial clues and teacher dramatisation to comprehend meaning. Students understand that they live in a world that can be explored through target language and images. Students may trace, copy or write short texts with the support of models. For scripted languages, students become aware that there are different scripts and begin to recognise characters from the target language.

Language as a system

Students understand that the sounds of the target language may be the same or different from other languages. Students begin to notice similarities and differences in the patterns of oral language. For scripted languages, students recognise that there are different writing systems.

Language and culture

This strand is interwoven with communication. Examples are provided in the content area of this document and will be expanded upon as teachers work with the intercultural approach. Students understand that they are part of a connected world. They begin to learn about their own culture and identity through noticing aspects of language that are demonstrated in visual ways – for example, on road signs.

Thinking

Students display a natural curiosity and interest as they experiment with the target language and its patterns. They appreciate that some concepts that they understand through English may be expressed differently in the target language.

Using ICT

Students begin to access ICT to view authentic texts, symbols and images, and listen to songs and stories. They may communicate simple messages using ICT and begin to enjoy interactive language programs.

Languages (LOTE) Japanese

Standard two

Standard overview

Learning opportunities

Resources

Standard two overview

The standard two student is likely to be in years 3–4. Students engage in language tasks that are tightly scaffolded and sequenced and use the language in everyday contexts. Most readily engage with other languages and cultures as they move away from the immediately personal to developing a stronger sense of community. They read, view and enjoy a range of familiar, predictable and / or simple texts.

Communication

Students are developing an understanding of language used in simple, repetitive sentence structures that are heavily dependent on context, visuals, gestures and intonation for understanding. Emphasis is still on oral language. They respond in familiar situations where the language is short, well-rehearsed and formulaic, for example, conducting a grid survey. Students recognise and assign meaning to short, familiar texts they see around them, such as classroom signs and labels. With some help, they read short texts with familiar content, vocabulary and other explicit contextual cues. Students write and copy short texts with the support of written models. For scripted languages, students are able to copy or write short texts.

Language as a system

Students notice similarities and differences in the patterns of both oral and written language. For scripted languages, students understand that correct stroke order is important when writing characters.

Language and culture

This strand is interwoven with communication. Examples are provided in the content area of this document and will be expanded upon as teachers work with the intercultural approach. Students are broadening their horizons and becoming increasingly aware of, and sensitive to, other cultural groups and languages. They begin to understand that there are diverse ways of thinking and valuing. Their observations often lead to further questions and speculations.

Thinking

Students continue to display a natural curiosity and interest as they experiment with the target language, its patterns and ideas. They notice similarities and differences, begin to make comparisons and reflect on their own thinking processes and learning strategies. Students are beginning to use tools to support their learning, such as charts and picture dictionaries.

Using ICT

Students access ICT to view authentic texts, symbols and images. They communicate simple messages using ICT and explore interactive resources such as websites, CD-ROMs and learning objects. They may consider how they will use media in the creation of simple texts such as comic strips and menus.

I have wings. I have feathers.’). • Have students read and sequence visual cards with key phrases drawn from a target language traditional cultural story with a repetitive text pattern. • Reinforce language patterns by substitution of words (e.g. substitution of words with opposite meaning—‘The bear is big. The bear is small.’). • Have students complete, in writing, a cloze exercise based on a familiar story, where key words have been removed. • Encourage students to use culturally appropriate gestures when using the target language.

- Have students read and write short texts in the target language, recognising that presentation of the text varies according to its purpose (e.g. labels, speech bubbles, greeting cards).
- Have students recognise that different patterns of language show different meanings (e.g. by ordering a series of words to create a simple sentence that has correct word order).
- Support students in noticing that words do not always have literal translations and that sentence patterns used in the target language have specific purposes (e.g. describing age).

Resources

Standard three overview

The standard three student is likely to be in years 5–6. Students are able to build on and apply generic thinking and literacy skills to support their learning of the target language. Students at standard three still require contextual support to use the target language effectively and continue to operate within a relatively small range of familiar contexts.

Communication

Students can ask and respond to routine questions in the target language and can deal with small amounts of unfamiliar language in contexts they understand. Students respond to written texts by using the language in simple spoken or written form, or by giving short verbal responses of one or two short sentences in the target language. Students can write short texts, such as emails or notes, on a variety of familiar topics. They are developing control over some formulaic language structures and patterns.

Language as a system

Students begin to recognise and use correct patterns in the target language in familiar situations. They can compare and reflect on similarities and differences between their own and the target language.

Language and culture

This strand is interwoven with communication. Examples are provided in the content area of this document and will be expanded upon as teachers work with the intercultural approach. Students further develop an understanding of their identity and their place in the world as they learn about their own and other cultural groups. They develop skills and understandings that enable them to participate in the wider community, responding appropriately to difference. Their observations often lead to further questions and speculations.

Thinking

Students continue to experiment with the target language, its patterns and ideas. They reflect on their own thinking processes and identify and use language learning strategies. Students are developing the ability to explain their thinking and selection of language learning strategies.

Using ICT

Students access ICT to view authentic texts, symbols and images. They consider how they will use media in their simple texts and use appropriate word-processing and multimedia software.

Learning opportunities standard three

Focus on:

- familiar, predictable and /or simple texts
- building on and applying thinking and literacy skills
- strong contextual support and scaffolding
- noticing and using patterns in oral and written language
- identifying and using language learning strategies
- comparing languages and cultures
- using ICT to access and create texts

Possible teaching emphases

- Have students listen to a short section of a familiar text in the target language and record the main idea (e.g. listen to a peer read, and record by drawing the key action being described; or participate in a ‘Who am I?’ activity).
- Have students listen three times to the soundtrack of a video segment without the vision and respond to simple questions related to the text (e.g. How many people are there?, Where are they?) Check interpretation in the final playing of the video, including vision.
- Reinforce students’ knowledge of time by recording times on blank clock faces after listening to a series of times read aloud in the target language.
- Expand dialogue in the target language by adding phrases of time, place and frequency (e.g. works with a partner to discuss daily routines or favourite pastimes—Student A: ‘I play tennis.’ Student B: ‘When?’ Student A: ‘I play tennis on Mondays.’).
- Provide opportunities for students to read familiar target language in a written description and apply it in a new context (e.g. how students get to school).

- Have students examine a simplified text and check predictions of meaning of words (e.g. examines with a partner a simplified target language traditional cultural story and checks word meanings in an electronic or paper-based bilingual picture dictionary).
- Have students read and examine a variety of modified text types written for different purposes and identify similarities and differences (e.g. reads texts about leisure and lifestyle activities in a target language country—a letter, postcard, advertisement, poster, electronic resources).
- Investigate how climate, traditions, population and community structure in a target language country can affect daily routines (e.g. students record on a timetable their own activities for a week and compare it to the timetable of a peer in the target language country).
- Model deciphering overall meaning by identifying key words in modified written texts e.g. using a big book.

- Code breaker – Students sort well-formed Japanese characters from poorly formed characters.
- Dragon temple: level 2 – Students find their way through ancient temple grounds to a hidden treasure room, solving word puzzles as they go. The second in a series of two objects that progressively increase in difficulty.
- Font cubes – Supports students in understanding that different characters may look slightly different in different fonts. (Available as three individual learning objects with different levels of difficulty, or as an aggregate set.)
- Manga professional – Three learning objects each with two versions of each, with different levels of language difficulty. Students take the part of a new employee at a manga design studio, learn about manga and complete two unfinished manga pages.
- Photo album: daily life I/ celebrations I/ school life I – Three learning objects where students match captions to photographs and answer targeted multiple choice questions. There are also second versions of these learning objects using more complex language.
- Quiz show: pick a box – Students pick boxes in a quiz show to score points, starting by selecting a key character with a basic meaning and looking at the meanings of three other characters to select the character needed to complete a given compound word. This learning object is one in a series of three objects.
- Quiz show: wheel of discovery: level 2 – Students solve word puzzles in a quiz show. This learning object is one in a series of three objects.
- Radical hunt: school hunt – Students take photos as they move around a school, finding Japanese characters hidden near the things they represent and identifying the general pattern that the meaning of radicals contributes to the meaning of compound characters. Radical hunt: island hunt is an easier version of this learning object.
- Stampede: kite stampede – Students look at the structure of Japanese characters appearing on a series of kites, building their knowledge of character components and structures by checking meanings and spoken examples. The second in a series of three learning objects that progressively increase in difficulty.
- Stampede: sushi stampede – Students look at the structure of Japanese characters appearing on a sushi train, building their knowledge of character components and structures by checking meanings and spoken examples. Standard four overview

The standard four student is likely to be in years 7–8. This group is often diverse, with students from varying language learning backgrounds. They are exploring personal identity and their place within society. Students at standard 4 are able to adapt the language they know to some unfamiliar situations. They are beginning to develop confidence in using language to suit context.

Communication

Students use the target language to speak and listen for particular purposes, including rehearsed dialogues. They make use of a range of text types to communicate with different audiences, in different contexts and for different purposes. They are able to express simple opinions in the target language and their writing shows more flexible use of the language and a willingness to experiment. Students apply learned grammar rules in a variety of contexts. They can identify new language patterns when found frequently in spoken and written texts presented through a range of media including television, magazines and songs.

Language as a system

Students recognise and use correct patterns in the target language without cues but in familiar situations. Their knowledge of sound / symbol relationships, language structure and text organisation enables them to interpret some written and visual texts.

Language and culture

This strand is interwoven with communication. Examples are provided in the content area of this document and will be expanded upon as teachers work with the intercultural approach. Students understand how cultures and languages contribute to forming personal and group identities. They further develop skills and understandings that enable them to participate in the local and global community. They develop intercultural sensitivity and a deeper understanding of their own and other cultures. Their observations often lead to further questions and speculations.

Thinking

Students reflect on, and begin to make explicit, their own understanding of language structure and use. They make meaning from context and continue to identify and use a range of language learning strategies and thinking processes.

Using ICT

Students use a variety of communication and research tools responsibly and ethically to access and present information, problem solve and communicate with others. They consider how they use media and familiar word-processing and multimedia software to create texts.

Possible teaching emphases

- Have students listen to classmates' descriptions and record responses (e.g. listen to classmates describe their favourite leisure activity, record the findings and make a bar graph representing popularity).
- Have students work in small groups to script and perform a role play e.g. in a restaurant.
- Have students distinguish the difference between formal and informal register (e.g. listen to two dialogues in the target language: one between adults, such as between a parent and teacher and the other between a parent greeting a child on return from school; compare the differences).
- Listen to songs in the target language with lyrics on OHT, with key words removed, and identify missing words.
- Have students script and video an advertisement, using modelled sentence patterns.

- Have students express opinions in the target language about how an advertisement from a target language country would influence their choice to purchase a particular product (e.g. 'I don't like ...', 'I prefer ... because ...').
- Reinforce writing in the target language for a specific purpose, supported by a table of words, phrases and expressions (e.g. develop an advertising slogan in the target language, selecting from words, phrases and expressions that support a persuasive message).
- Have students write in pairs a hip-hop / rap song in the target language on a topic of their choice.
- Provide opportunities for students to demonstrate rules regarding a negotiated language feature (e.g. place of adjective, verb tense) by designing a method of learning and remembering that form (e.g. a mnemonic or simple game).
- Use playing cards, flash cards and guessing games to teach and reinforce vocabulary items and sentence structures. Have students reflect on the strategies that best support them in their learning and share with their peers.
- Have students use knowledge of language patterns and features in a cross-age tutoring program to share and enhance their understanding of language concepts (e.g. write a report in English describing what they did and what they learned and younger students learned).
- Have students select from a set of prepared cards, a character to role-play at a party, set in the target language culture, and introduce themselves to other party-goers using appropriate verbal and non-verbal language; exchange information about name, age, occupation, nationality, likes and dislikes; and then write a brief description of at least two people they met, summarising personal details (e.g. 'I met Kenji. Kenji lives in Tokyo and is a Japanese high school student. He is studying in Sydney.')

Learning objects

- The Learning Federation – learning object catalogues <http://www.thelearningfederation.edu.au/tlf2/>
- Department of Education eCentre for Teachers, Resource Centre, Learning Object search <http://ecentre.education.tas.gov.au/C15/Learning%20Objects/default.aspx> Examples are:
 - Amazing characters: level 2 - Students solve word puzzles as they find a way through two mazes (a garden and a cave). They build their knowledge of simple characters by checking meanings and spoken examples. This learning object is the second in a series of two objects that progressively increase in difficulty.
 - Code breaker – Students sort well-formed Japanese characters from poorly formed characters.
 - Direct a taxi: Kyoto traffic jam – Students join a taxi service as a controller and get to know landmarks in Kyoto. They check the traffic conditions and give directions to a driver as they pick up and drop off passengers. This is the first in a series of two learning objects that become progressively more difficult.
 - Dragon temple: level 2 – Students find their way through ancient temple grounds to a hidden treasure room, solving word puzzles as they go. The second in a series of two objects that progressively increase in difficulty.

- Font cubes – Supports students in understanding that different characters may look slightly different in different fonts. (Available as three individual learning objects with different levels of difficulty, or as an aggregate set.)
- Manga professional – Three learning objects each with two versions of each, with different levels of language difficulty. Students take the part of a new employee at a manga design studio, learn about manga and complete two unfinished manga pages.
- Moshi moshi – Three learning objects offering students a virtual mobile phone experience, receiving and replying to SMS text messages and voicemail.
- Photo album: daily life I/ celebrations I/ school life I – Three learning objects where students match captions to photographs and answer targeted multiple choice questions. There are also second versions of these learning objects using more complex language.
- Quiz show: pick a box – Students pick boxes in a quiz show to score points, starting by selecting a key character with a basic meaning and looking at the meanings of three other characters to select the character needed to complete a given compound word. This learning object is one in a series of three objects.
- Quiz show: wheel of discovery: level 2 – Students solve word puzzles in a quiz show. This learning object is one in a series of three objects.
- Radical hunt: school hunt – Students take photos as they move around a school, finding Japanese characters hidden near the things they represent and identifying the general pattern that the meaning of radicals contributes to the meaning of compound characters. Radical hunt: island hunt is an easier version of this learning object.
- Stampede: kite stampede – Students look at the structure of Japanese characters appearing on a series of kites, building their knowledge of character components and structures by checking meanings and spoken examples. The second in a series of three learning objects that progressively increase in difficulty.
- Stampede: sushi stampede – Students look at the structure of Japanese characters appearing on a sushi train, building their knowledge of character components and structures by checking meanings and spoken examples. The second in a series of three learning objects that progressively increase in difficulty. (Available also as a combined set of three learning objects.)
- Sugo! An enormous range of learning objects following the same basic outline but covering a range of topics, and suitable for beginners at different ages. Topics are available as a set or as three individual learning objects. Topics include:
 - Greetings ('saying hello and goodbye', 'saying how you are', and 'saying how you feel')
 - 1,2,3 (counting 1-10, 11-100, and how much things cost)
 - My things (colours, personal possessions and shapes & sizes)
 - My body (parts of the body, physical characteristics and 'at the doctor's')About me
 - Animals ('at the zoo' and 'describing animals')About me
 - Let's eat (eating & drinking; the fruit shop, and 'what's cooking?')
 - My clothes (naming clothes, coloured clothes and buying clothes)
 - My house (contents and parts, where is the frog? and where coloured things are)
 - Time (the hours, hours and half-hours, daily activities)
 - The family (family members, introducing others, family occupations)
 - About me (what is my name?, how old am I?, where do I come from?)
 - Let's play ('sports and games', 'what do you like to play?' and 'shall we go somewhere?')
 - Getting around ('where are you going?' and 'how do you get there?')
 - The weather ('today's weather', 'dressing for weather' and 'weather in other countries')
 - Going places ('places and weekdays', 'what you can and can't do' , 'animals you see and hear')
 - My day ('what to do?', 'who's doing what?' and 'what are people doing?')

- Train a sumo wrestler: beginner – Students coach a trainee sumo wrestler, exploring cultural aspects of the sport such as arena design and matches rituals. They look at sample training schedules and much more. This learning object is the first of two objects that progressively increase in difficulty.
- Vending machines – Three learning objects ('food and money', 'drinks and money' and 'food, drinks and money') from a set of six in this series. Students ask a friend what they want to eat or drink, identify the food in a vending machine and pay for it.

Resources

Standard five overview

The standard five student is likely to be in years 9–10. Students at standard five gain an increased understanding of the form and structure of the language being studied, allowing them to apply rules and language patterns to unfamiliar language situations. They demonstrate a growing independence in their use of the language.

Communication

In their own speaking and writing, they can control language structures and features and can use a range of strategies to help them understand unfamiliar language. They continue to make use of a range of text types to communicate with different audiences, in different contexts and for different purposes. They respond to a range of texts with unfamiliar language structures and vocabulary. Students can use the target language in longer conversations and more complex written texts.

Language as a system

Students recognise and use correct patterns in the target language more independently. They analyse and interpret meanings in diverse media.

Language and culture

This strand is interwoven with communication. Examples are provided in the content area of this document and will be expanded upon as teachers work with the intercultural approach. Students further develop skills and understandings that enable them to participate as global citizens. They understand how cultures and languages contribute to forming identities. They offer personal insights and a deeper understanding of their own and other cultures. Their observations often lead to further questions and speculations.

Thinking

Students explain how they can modify target language structures to suit their own communication needs. Students identify, develop and use language learning strategies.

Using ICT

Students use a range of ICT in creative ways to access and present information and demonstrate solutions. They select and use appropriate tools competently, ethically and responsibly.

Assessment evidence guide

The assessment guide contains sample indicators that help teachers place students at a standard. They are examples of student achievement and an on-balance judgement must be made about whether a student's performance is of similar difficulty to the indicators provided. In an on-balance judgement a student is assessed over time and from a range of evidence.

When assessing a student:

1. Teachers use the indicators to place student performance at standard level.
2. Teachers then consider the following criteria to refine the judgement to stage level:
 - independence – level of support
 - accuracy of pronunciation, intonation, fluency, spelling, grammar and script
 - sophistication of language, including the level of detail, use of prior knowledge, breadth of structures, complexity and creativity.

Teacher judgement will be supported by moderation and support materials including tasks and annotated work samples.

Glossary

Authentic

Authentic resources are texts that are taken directly from the target language.

Concept map

A diagram or graphic organiser that shows the relationships between concepts. They are linked with connecting lines.

Graphic organisers

Ways of organising information in visual or diagrammatic forms. Examples include flow charts and timelines.

Intercultural language learning is an approach to the teaching and learning of languages that has strong connections to inquiry thinking. It requires learners to adopt an inquiring state of mind, to notice and question assumptions and to reorient themselves in relation to others. It focuses on language interactions.

'I see, I think, I wonder'

This thinking strategy is useful for looking at visual texts. Students are asked 'What do you see? What do you think about that? What does it make you wonder?'

K-W-L

Stands for what I know, what I want to know and what I learned. A three column chart is ruled up on a page. Students brainstorm as a class or in groups what they know and list their prior knowledge (K) in the first column. They set their goals for learning (W) in the second column and reflect or evaluate their learning (L) in the third column.

Language learning strategies

Language learning strategies are intentional behaviours and ways of thinking used by language learners to better help them understand, learn, or remember new information.

Languages (LOTE)

The current national term for this learning area is 'Languages'. However to avoid confusion during the transition, both terms are used in the local context.

Modified

Modified resources are authentic texts that are simplified or adapted to better meet student needs.

Non-verbal communication

Communication using signs, symbols, gestures and body language.

Podcast

Like a radio show, but instead of being broadcast live, a podcast is recorded, then distributed over the internet, so that it can be listened to directly from the website or downloaded and listened to at a later time. Podcasts range from general interest entertainment shows to those that focus on specific topics (e.g. computers / music / education). Students can create podcasts for sharing with others and can give feedback on the podcasts of others.

Recognition

Recognition indicates that a student has been introduced to a linguistic item but is not expected to be proficient in using or applying it. Recognition tends to be at the receptive stage.

Text

Any communication involving spoken, signed, written, visual, non-verbal or auditory language.

Text Types

The student will be expected to be familiar with a variety of text types. Teaching may introduce the student to a wider range of text types in the course of their teaching and learning program:

advertisement	interview (script)	presentation
announcement	invitation	recipe
article	journal entry	report
blog	map	review
chart	menu	SMS
conversation	news item	song
diary entry	note / message	speech / talk (script)
discussion	personal profile	story
editorial	play	summary
email	podcast	survey
film	poem	timetable
formal letter	postcard	webpage
informal letter		wiki

Venn diagram

Venn diagrams use circles to illustrate the relationships between two or more groups of objects that share something in common. They do not have to overlap, however examples that fit into both categories overlap in the circles.

Visual texts

Any visual communication using language, signs and / or symbols. Visual texts can be in print or electronic form.

Wiki

A wiki is a type of website, where anyone can add, remove and edit any of the content quickly and easily. Probably the best-known example of a wiki is wikipedia (<http://www.wikipedia.org>), an encyclopaedia that has been created by its users in over 200 languages.
